

Today, I Believe

Lord, you have always granted me the peace of the morrow
and though anxious,
today I believe.

Lord, you have always charted the next day's path for me
And though it be hidden,
today I believe.

Lord, you have always illuminated my darkness,
And though without light,
today I believe.

Lord, you have always spoken to me when the time was right,
and in spite of your silence,
today I believe.

Prayer from the Reformed Church in the review "Praying"